SHE WON BEAUTIFULLY.

It Cost Him the Better Part of a Cigar to Learn Politeness.

They boarded an east bound Market street car at Forty-first street. It was after 1 o'clock in the morning, and he wanted to smoke, having probably just dined or supped at a ball which was being given in the neighborhood. She didn't want to smoke and she didn't want to be separated from him.

"Come on inside the car," she pleaded.

"No," he answered. "I am going to smoke. Go inside yourself, and when I have finished my cigar I will join you."

But this didn't suit her.

"If you stay out here to smoke," she retorted, "I'll stay right with you."

He looked at her a moment, and then evidently concluded that she was bluffing. Pulling out a big cigar, he lighted it, and, settling himself comfortably against the dashboard of the car, he began to pull away as if his life depended upon it. Nothing daunted, she took a place alongside of him and calmly folding her arms started up a lively conversation.

The spectacle was an odd one, and attracted the attention of every passenger in the car as well as of those who got on at various corners. He tried to urge her inside the car a number of times, but she refused to go. In this fashion the two rode across the bridge and half way to city hall before he weakened.

The anticipated jeers of the people he knew would be on Market street in the center of the city were too much for him, and, throwing away the biggest end of his cigar, he suddenly said,

"Well, if you won't go inside without me I suppose I'll have to trot along."

Then he took a seat away up in the front end, and she settled herself beside him. Meanwhile the whole car smiled audibly. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

WHAT IT COSTS TO SMOKE.

A Library Which Materialized From Tabacco Five Cent Cigars.

"How can you afford all these books?"

asked a young man, calling upon a friend. "I can't seem to find spare change for even the leading magazines."

"Oh, that library is only my 'one cigar a day,'" was the reply.

"What do you mean," inquired the visitor.

"Mean? Just this: When you advised me to indulge in an occasional cigar several years ago, I had been reading about a young fellow who bought books with money that others would have burned in cigars, and I thought I would try to do the same. You may remember that I said I should allow myself one cigar a day?"

"Yes, I recall the conversation, but don't quite see the connection."

"Well, I never smoked, but I put by the price of a 5 cent cigar every day, and as the money accumulated I bought books—the very books you see."

"You don't mean to say that your books cost no more than that! Why, there are dollars' worth of them."

"Yes, I know there are. I had six years more of my apprenticeship to serve when you advised me 'to be a man.' I put by the money, which, at 5 cents a day, amounted to $18.25 a year, or $109.50 in six years. I keep those books by themselves as a result of my apprenticeship cigar money, and if you'd done as I did you would by this time have saved many, many more dollars than I have and would have been better off in health and self respect besides." —Success.

The Alpine Good Night.

Among the lofty mountains and elevated valleys of Switzerland the Alpine horn has another use besides that of sounding the far famed "Ranz des Vaches," or cow song, and this is of a very solemn and impressive nature.

When the sun has set in the valley and the snowy summits of the mountains gleam with golden light, the herds-man who dwells upon the highest habitable spot takes his horn and pronounces clearly and loudly through it, as through a speaking trumpet, "Praise the Lord God." As soon as the sound is heard by the neighboring herdsmen they issue from their huts, take their Alpine horns and repeat the same words.

This frequently lasts a quarter of an hour, and the call resounds from all the mountains and rocky cliffs around.

When silence again reigns, the herds-men kneel and pray with uncovered heads. Meantime it has become quite dark. "Good night!" at last calls the highest herdsman through his horn.

The words resound from all the mountains, the horns of the herdsmen and the cliffs, and the mountaineers then retire to their dwellings. —Pittsburg Dispatch.

Thrifty George Curzon.

The Hon. George Curzon, who married beautiful Miss Leiter, is decidedly canny. He recently rented a country mansion furnished; but without the family plate, and so was compelled to provide candlesticks for the house. He tried to exact from the landlord's agent a pledge that at the expiration of the lease he would take these candlesticks off his hands at two-thirds of what they cost. The agent demurred at first, but when he discovered that they were 15 in number, of japanned tin and cost 40 cents each, he solemnly agreed to pay $4 for the lot when Curzon leaves.

Maternal Trials.

"Edie," cried the mother from the hall below, "what's all that noise up stairs? It's shocking."

"Oh, it's these two dolls of mine, mamma. I'm going to put them right to bed and see if we can't have a little peace." —Detroit Free Press.

The principal varieties of the opal are the precious (or noble), the girasol, the cabochon, the hyaline, the hydrophane, the asteria and a kind exhibiting dendritic markings, generally called the moss. When the colors are broken into small masses, it is sometimes called the cristallo.

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of this exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. B. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State along the line of the C. P. R. R., to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advertised, to co-operate with the Exposition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare some product of his county and send it to the nearest point on the C. P.
R. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha and exhibited, and returned to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor.
Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description should be given the Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take, otherwise there might be many duplications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

THE HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCE-MENT.

Last evening's entertainment at the Opera House must have increased triple that Reno already has for her educational facilities. Fifteen young men and women received their High School certificates in the presence of a vast audience and were prepared to seek higher attainment in an educational sense or enter upon the practical duties of life with a good common school education. They have been thoroughly trained and the ground work has been laid to make them useful members of society even though they should determine to lay aside their books and enter the ranks of the hurrying army of the business world and strive for success and perhaps fame. They have also prepared themselves, if their ambitions lead them in the direction of a higher education, to enter the University and strive to win honors there.

Many of those in the large audience last evening, whose hair has turned white, looked upon those bright boys and girls and silently compared the advantages afforded now and those of fifty years ago and could not help but wonder whether or not the young people of today appreciated the wonderful progress and advantages offered them in these last days of the nineteenth century.

Miss Goodwin Doten in her essay on "The Decay of Veneration," told many truths and gave illustrations of the light manner in which the young people of the present time look upon their elders and even lack in the spirit of patriotism. Is it possible that the institutions of learning and the discoveries for the comfort and pleasure of mankind, which have been perfected during the century are to eventually prove a curse instead of a blessing? It can not be, yet there are many things that indicate such an end.

Let the High School Class of '98 take heed of their classmates' warning and strive to uphold and encourage others to do the same. The human family are so constituted that leaders must arise, that the great majority may follow and if these leaders, by example and proper influence, endeavor to make the world better, the world will be better. Each person has his or her part to play in the great drama of life. It can be played well and the player receive proper credit, or by carelessness, lack of ambition or purpose failure is sure to be the result.

Love and war seem to move in the same channel although the sentiments are so widely different. Each hero of the present war has had his love episode, its usual romance and in some instances disappointment. The war has caused them to be recalled, even though the incidents occurred long ago.
When Dewey accomplished his great victory, it was said that he had a score against the Spaniards to settle owing to the fact that a Spanish grandee had won from him one of his early sweethearts. Similar episodes have been referred to in connection with other officers in the present war and now comes the latest, where Admiral Cervera of the Spanish Navy is said to have been a principal in a romance at Washington while an attaché of the Spanish Legation. He became desperately in love with the beautiful daughter of a United States Senator and was so persistent in his attentions that on one occasion during the progress of a State reception, the young lady was compelled to leave the reception room and depart owing to his public demonstrations of affection for her and subsequently had to discontinue his acquaintance. This riled the haughty Spaniard and it is claimed that he has never forgiven what he considered an American insult to himself and his country.

It is asserted now that the bill providing for the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands will pass. Mr. Newlands has taken a very active part in this measure, maintaining that the question was one of purely territorial defense and commercial expansion.
The Senate has been canvassed and it is believed the bill will pass that body without serious trou.

"THIS WAR," says General Barrington, "will build the Nicaragua canal as surely as the war of the Rebellion built the great bands of steel that connect New York and San Francisco, the great transcontinental lines which enable us to ship to our coasts the troops that fight our battles, enabling us to protect the broad nation as it looks on both sides of the sea."

The second expedition to the Philippines sailed from San Francisco at 1 o'clock yesterday for Manila.

CONDENSED WAR NEWS.

Rear Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley with their combined fleets are slowly but surely cutting off every possible aid from the Spaniards in Cuba. Supplies are checked and the Spanish Army is now down to famine rations.

Commodore Schley has secured a map of the harbor of Santiago de Cuba showing the position of each vessel of the Spanish fleet also the position of the sunken collier Merrimac in the center of the narrow entrance to the harbor.

The British steamer Twickenham captured off Kingston, Jamaica, on the 10th inst. by the St. Louis, arrived at Key West yesterday with a prize crew.
She has a cargo of 8000 tons of coal and one passenger, supposed to be an employee of the Spanish government.

Sampson reports that he has been reluctant by several hundred Cubans.
The men under General Garcia are cooperating with the American forces.

The report that Germany would interfere in the Philippine matter is positively denied and said to be unwarranted. German ships will be at the island to afford protection to German property, but will not interfere in the trouble between this government and Spain.

A Madrid dispatch from Manila says that the situation there is critical. The enemy surround the town and communication is cut off. General Mount is expected with reinforcements for the Spanish, but General Augusti says he has heard nothing from him. A bombardment of the city is expected hourly and the white population have entered the fortified part of the city.

The United States marines and Cubans attacked a Spanish camp situated five miles from the American entrenchments at Guantanamo yesterday.
They completely routed a force of four hundred Spaniards, breaking up their camp. One American was slightly wounded.

The dynamite guns of the Vesuvius were tested Monday night off Santiago.
The shots were directed against the Spanish fortifications and it is believed caused great damage. On Tuesday morning the New Orleans shelled and partially destroyed emplacements east of Morro Castle.

A scouting party of marines which were sent out Monday returned Tuesday evening with eighteen Spanish prisoners, one of them an officer. The party also captured one hundred Mauser rifles and 10,000 rounds of ammunition.

The French Cabinet resigned yesterday. The President accepted the resignations and requested the Ministers to continue the direction of affairs until their successors were appointed.

An attempt was made to assassinate the Secretary of the German Embassy at London yesterday. Two shots were fired at him by an unknown man, one of them taking effect. The assassin was arrested after a hard fight.

Idealism and Realism.
"What do you think, my dear?" exclaimed Mr. Brownjones in tones of joyful excitement. "You know the Federation of Authors is meeting in our city.
Well, we are to have the honor of entertaining the celebrated novelist Go-dolphin Whatnot as our guest."

"Um," responded Mrs. Brownjones enigmatically. "Is Mr. Whatnot a realist or an idealist?"

"Why do you want to know?" asked Brownjones, surprised.

"Well, if he is an idealist I can just leave things as they are, but if he is a realist I must give the house a thorough cleaning from top to bottom. I may not be literary, but I've dipped into realistic novels, and I know their style."
"The right hand curtain hung slightly askew, suggesting that one of the drapary pins had lost its grip. A pendulous cobweb waved mournfully from the cornice just above the door leading into the hall, and there was a fine bloom of dust, like that of the purple grape, on the piano lid. In the left hand corner of the room, almost buried in the pile of somewhat faded carpet, was an invisible hairpin, clearly indicating the recent presence of a woman in the apartment." Find out right away, Barrington, what Mr. Whatnot is, and then I shall know how to proceed. I have no desire to let my house afford material to a realistic observation sharp."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Overemotional Humanity.

If you inflict one healing pang, exert one touch of salutary discipline, then you are no benefactor, but a heartless devil.

The outcry against vaccination, against vivisection, furnishes an exactly parallel case. The same sentiment is at the heart of both—the unconquerable shrinking from initial pain, even though it promise to repay itself by tenfold exemption in the future. Of course the agitators against vaccination and vivisection assure themselves that there are no repaying benefits to follow, and in a way they are sincere. But their sincerity is not that which comes from a cool headed review of known facts. It is the sincerity of an emotion which has overwhelmed reason.

An unbiased deduction from the experience of small epidemics, from the records of medical progress, must convince the most unwilling of us that the benefits of both vaccination and vivisection are real and appreciable. Whether they outweigh the death of a few weakly infants and the suffering of a few insensitive animals is another question.
Most people would readily answer it with a "Yes." The antivaccinators and antivivisectioners might on consideration answer it with a "No." But the instructive feature of their case is that they do not consider at all. They never get so far. The sight of the scars on a baby's arm; the idea of the yelping of a tormented dog, the first hint or imagining of physical pain, is enough to paralyze their reason.

Time Spent in Shaving.

Think of the time lost in shaving.
Campbell, the poet, calculated that a man who shaves himself every day and lives to the age of 70 expends during his life as much time in the act of shaving as would have sufficed for learning seven languages. Southey, commenting on this, mused himself, May 15, 1880, during the act of shaving, and he found the time employed nine minutes. He neither hurried the operation nor lingered about it. Listen now to William Corbett concerning shaving: "As it may cost only about five minutes of time and may be and frequently is made to cost 30 or even 60 minutes and as only 15 minutes make about a fifty-eighth part of the hours of our average daylight, this being the case, this is a matter of real importance. I once heard Sir John Sinclair ask Mr. Cochrane Johnstone whether he meant to have a son of his, then a little boy, taught Latin. 'No,' said Mr. Johnstone, 'but I mean to do something a great deal better for him.'
'What is that?' said Sir John. 'Why,' said the other, 'teach him to shave with cold water and without a glass.'"— Boston Journal.

Three Centuries Behind Americans.

Several papers dealing with the Pen-sylvania coal regions appear in The Century. Henry Edward Rood, writing of "A Polyglot Community," says:
"More than one-half the total number of immigrants into the United States are coming from Austria-Hungary, Italy, Poland and Russia. While official statistics are not available, yet careful investigation leads to the belief that perhaps 60 or 60 per cent of arrivals from the countries mentioned have had, no regular occupation, while possibly 30 per cent may have been servants or laborers. Five years ago the Rev. Mr.
Manjerie, himself an Italian, in company with the writer made a tour of observation through the Lehigh region of Pennsylvania, and stated that in his opinion the Italians working there were about three centuries behind Americans in their standards of living—that is, in their ideas as to food, clothing, shelter, wages, work and general intelligence.
Since that time there has been no improvement in the class of immigrants arriving at our ports.

Patient Rosy.

Rosy McShane was a fairly good maid of all work, but, like most of her kind, she was woefully slack in caring for her own room.
Her mistress was ill for two or three weeks, and on recovering she went up to Rosy's room and found it in a state of dirt and disorder beyond description.
Very indignant, she called Rosy, and said:
"Rosy, I don't see how you can stand it to have your room like this!"
Smiling pleasantly, Rosy made reply:
"Ah, thin, ma'am, but I was ever a patient person."—Harper's Bazar.

Heat and Fuel Savers.

How long are you going to "get along" with that old cookstove that turns more fuel than a furnace and heats the outdoors more than it does the oven?

A very little money will buy one of our cookstoves—you'll save the price in fuel in one season. It will keep the heat where it ought to be, and cook your food as it ought to be cooked.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.

An Interesting Event and one Long to be Remembered by the Graduates.

An important event in the history of Reno's High School and one that was entertaining as well to the general public took place at the Opera House last evening. The occasion was the Thirtieth Annual Commencement of the Senior Department.

The stage was tastefully and appropriately decorated; banks and bouquets of cut flowers, floral designs and potted plants in profusion on every hand turned the stage into a perfect bower of beauty. The class colors, red and green, were conspicuous. The fifteen graduates were seated in a group in the center. Judge Webster, M. E. Ward and S. M. Jamison, the Board of Trustees, were seated behind the class. T. V. Julien, School Superintendent; John Edwards Bray, Principal; Mrs. M. S. Dote, Miss Schradler and Mrs. C. T. Bender also Roy Morris a former member of the class occupied positions in the grouping.

Long before the hour named for the exercises to begin every seat in the theater was occupied and every available space was filled and many people were unable to gain admission.

The High School Orchestra opened the exercises with a stirring overture and this was followed by a song, "Let Our Voices Be Glad," by the High School.

Miss Edna Willma Bean read an essay on "While the School Ball Rings." Miss Bean is an excellent reader and with a splendid voice and enunciation gave the audience a thorough understanding of the emotions caused by the ringing of the school bell.

Percy Allen Bonham followed in an oration on "Spain 1492-1898," gave the rise of Spain and her gradual downfall, through the cruelty of her rulers and her probable final ending as a nation of the earth. The young man showed ability as a speaker and his oration was not only historical but full of the patriotism of the hour.

George Ward sang "Love's Serenade" in a charming manner and was accorded a hearty encore, to which he readily responded.

An essay, "The Power Behind the Throne," by Miss Laura Beatty Orr, was read in splendid style. The young lady admitted that men were credited with making the history of the world, but she demonstrated that the women had much to do with the world's progress and particularly the more ennobling features of the present and while recognized as the power behind the throne, some of the modern women had even aspired to occupy the throne.

An oration by William Ernest Corrie on "Self Help" was an address brimming over with good practical advice and suggestions to young men and women as to their course in life. He urged that each strive to make of himself or herself a useful member of society and useful to the world in general.

A double quartette, "Kings Champion," was a pleasing feature.

Miss Goodwin Stoddard Dote presented an essay on "The Decay of Veneration." The young lady showed very conclusively the lack of respect in the rising generation for their elders and "the decay of veneration" for all things that tend to uplift even to the feeling of patriotism or love of Fatherland. She gave many of the young people a number of truths which will provide food for thought for some time.

An overture, "La Fille du Regiment," by the High School Orchestra was well rendered.

Charles Whitcraft Mapes' oration "Beyond the Chilcoot Lies the Yukon" was delivered in good voice. The speaker showed what a magnificent influence gold has on the human kind. Notwithstanding the blasts of the north, the hazardous passage of the Chilcoot or the damp fogs which threaten death to all and cause the death of many men by the hundreds and women by the score are willing to brave all dangers in the hope of gaining gold.

Miss Florence Grace Roche rendered an "Nymphs and Pan" a vocal solo in an artistic manner. She responded to an encore and gave "I Love You in the Same Old Way."

"The Press and the People" an oration by Fred Brewer Julien was well delivered. He told of the knowledge held by the ancients, many of their arts having been lost to the world. He spoke of the "Dark Ages" of the world and then the discovery of transferring the impress of letters to leaves and to paper and then the art of printing and closed by a severe criticism of the newspapers of modern times and the disreputable methods of the editors covering dishonesty, vulgarity and in fact all of the crimes in the decalogue. The speaker looked toward the box reserved for the press, but luckily the editor of the JOURNAL had left the press box and brother Bragg was compelled to take the full brunt of the criticism.

If Mr. Julien should ever be unfortunate enough to be compelled to edit a newspaper and have to associate with all manner of men and some times women, all professions and classes, prayed for by the Christids, cursed by the rabble and mob, kept out of jail by the lawyers and dosed by the doctors, his lofty ideas about what the press should be will certainly be changed to pity for the patient editor.

A male quartette in "Rosebud Fair" was well received and encored.

Mrs. C. T. Bender was then introduced and in an address, "Some of the Needs of the Public Schools," spoke to the parents from the standpoint of a parent. She called their attention to the fact that it was useless to complain at home of the school and methods, but the proper thing to do was to visit the schools and suggest improvement and even to meet together and discuss with the teachers advantageous changes. She did not hesitate to criticize fault-finding parents and while giving praise to the teachers, she told them there was room for improvement in various ways. She believed that a teacher should have sunshine in her heart and in the selection of teachers, those who lacked sunshine should be marked zero as teachers, no matter what their attainments might be.

A class song followed Mrs. Bender's address, and Prof. Bray announced the class honors as follows: Miss Goodwin S. Dote, 86.84 per cent, first honor; Miss Edna Bean, 85.22 per cent, second honor; Miss Katie Elvira Frank, 85.74 per cent, honorary mention.

County School Superintendent T. V. Julien was then introduced and proceeded to present diplomas to the graduates with appropriate remarks.

William Grimes a member of the class of '98 arose and presented Professor Bray with a token from the class. He was followed by Miss Margaret O'Brien who performed the same service for the class by presenting an appropriate token to Mrs. Dote.

Mrs. Layton deserves special commendation for the excellent music. The pupils showed the good work of their teacher and proved that this department of the High School is one of the most important in the High School system.

The names of the graduates are as follows: Edna Willma Bean, Percy Allen Bonham, William Ernest Corrie, Goodwin Stoddard Dote, Katie Elvira Frank, Christie Fraser, Eugene William Grimes, Frank VanCamp Julien, Fred Brewer Julien, Benjamin Cleveland Leadbetter, Percy Erwin Leadbetter, Chas. Whitcraft Mapes, Margaret Veronica O'Brien, Laura Beatty Orr, Florence Grace Roche.

About Cuba and Porto Rico. The Cuban debt is placed at $285,000,000, or about $970 per inhabitant. About 80,000 of the inhabitants of Cuba are ordinarily engaged in the cultivation of tobacco.

A description of the various cities, both in Cuba and Porto Rico, shows that yellow fever and smallpox are everywhere prevalent.

Cuba has produced in a single year for export, 1,000,000 tons of sugar, and its capabilities have only been in the experimental stage.

Although settled more than fifty years before the United States, Cuba still has 13,000,000 acres of primeval forests, including mahogany, redwood, ebony and many other valuable woods.

Cuba's Mine Sold.

The last step in the biggest mining sale made in this country for many years was taken last Tuesday, when the deed for the Star and Grey Eagle mines at Cherry Creek from the Florence Mining Company and A. C. Cleveland to the Atlantic Star Mines, Limited, a corporation whose home office is at Glasgow, Scotland, was filed for record with the County Recorder. The price paid for the property was $37,500 which in our money is approximately $181,575. This sets at rest the rumors of "floating" "bubbles" who have claimed that this deal would never be completed. We understand that the preliminary surveys for a large mill have already been made. —White Pine News.

Beats the Klondike.

Mr. A. C. Thomas, of Marysville, Tex., has found a more valuable discovery than has yet been made in the Klondike. For years he suffered untold agony from consumption accompanied by hemorrhages; and was absolutely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and cold, he declares that gold is of little value in comparison with this marvelous cure; would have it, even if it cost a hundred dollars a bottle. Asthma, Bronchitis and all throat and lung affections are positively cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodkinson's Drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Guaranteed to cure or money refunded.

A Disgusted Professor.

Colonel Maxson writes that Nevada's exhibit looms up fine at the Omaha Exposition and that the mineral soap is a great curiosity. He has the soap, sulphur and salt, natural products of Nevada, grouped as the three "SSS." He says that a dude Professor from a New England college was shown a specimen of the soap the other day and after tasting a bit of it, he recognized it as a fine quality of tale. The Professor then complimented himself upon his knowledge of mineralogy, which he taught, after which he was shown the analysis of the soap as printed in the World's Fair report. This proof of his ignorance greatly insulted him and he walked away without saying good-bye.

THE STAGE DRIVER'S BLUFF.
Hairbreadth Stories of Accidents Which Failed to Awe One Passenger.
As we left Sandy Gulch for Rising Sun there were six male passengers to go by the stage, and the route was over the mountains and full of chances of disaster. The driver came out from breakfast as soon as the stage was ready, and looking about on the passengers he selected a small, pale faced man and invited him to climb up beside him.
While the pale faced man was climbing the driver whispered to the rest of us: "I picked him out in order to scare him to death. You fellows will see a heap of fun before we've gone ten miles."
Two minutes west of the gulch the road made a sudden turn, with a sheer fall of 100 feet down to Wild Cat creek, and the driver put his horses at the gallop and said to the man:
"We may get around all right, or we may fetch up down below. Hold your breath and say your prayers." The passenger made no move and did not change countenance, and after making the course all right the driver rather indignantly demanded:
"Didn't you see that the off wheel ran within a foot of the edge of the precipice?"
"It ran within six inches, sir," was the reply.
Beyond the curve was a down grade of a mile, and with a yell and a flourish of his whip the driver urged his horses to a dead run. The five of us inside had to hang on for dear life, and every half minute the stage seemed bound to go over.
"Did you know that if we'd struck a rock we'd all been dead men in no time?"
"Of course."
"And you wasn't prayin'?"
"Not at all."
Three or four miles farther on the driver tried his man with another curve.
In his determination to make a close call of it one wheel ran off the edge of the precipice, and only a sudden effort of the horses saved the coach. We were flung in a heap and frightened half to death, but the man beside the driver never lost a puff of his cigar. When things were safe, the driver turned on him with:
"That surely was the brink of the grave."
"Guess it was," was the quiet reply.
"The closest shave you will ever have till the last one comes."
"Yes."
"See here, now, but what sort of a critter are you?" was the query. "Don't you know 'nuff to git skeart?"
"Nothing has happened yet to scare me."
"But maybe you want me to drive plumb over a precipice 1,000 feet high?"
"If you conveniently can. The fact is, I came off up here intending to commit suicide, and if you can damp the whole of us over some cliff you'll oblige me."—Atlanta Constitution.

Stopped the Fight.
"Well," said Bliggs while sitting up in bed talking with the family lawyer, "I'll tell you all about it, but not a word to any one else, mind you. I'm a sight and scared up like the hero of a German university, but I suppose it's something to be alive."
"You know the governor has been urging me to strike out and see what I could do for myself. He'd advance the money, to be charged against my share of the estate of course. I kept my eye open and I saw a chance that was worth a fortune in one plunge. A couple of fellows in our set had a falling out, with which I think jealousy had something to do, and agreed to put on the gloves as a safe and honorable way of settling their differences. They had a private hall, and it didn't require two thoughts on my part to convince me that a reproduction of their mill would make a hit and fortune. To make sure I provided myself with both a vitascope and a veriscope. I had a big pile of films on hand for the occasion, and you know that these films are of celluloid.
The janitor was my fellow conspirator.
"About the third round, and while we were getting along swimmingly, there was an explosion like the blowing up of a dynamite factory, the select audience stampeded, the principals hustled down the back stairs and the police found me unconscious under a wreck.
Something had set that celluloid off, and I'll never know what did it. No one else has a theory. Just tell the governor that I made a bad investment."—

New York English.
We have been told by a keen and intelligent observer who has returned to this city after a sojourn of two years abroad that the average New Yorker is becoming very careless with his English; not only does he jumble his words together in every conceivable sequence, but he makes a gesture to supply a noun or verb and rattles off slang the analogy of which is often intelligible only to himself. Without recalling for the moment any specific examples, we believe our friend to be correct. He does not go far enough, however; there is another side. If the New Yorker at times tries to get an idea out in the fewest possible words, on other occasions he is tellingly tautological and prolix. One has only to keep an open ear in a car ride up town to find confirmation for this.
Here, as though relaxing the exigency of economy of speech that has been practiced while discussing affairs all day, needless and endless repetitions take place and the obnoxious "I say" introduces half the phrases that are uttered.
We haven't any explanation to make, however, or remedy to offer.—New York Times.

The Difference.
"Why are some statues made life size and some heroic size?"
"A life size statue represents a man as big as he was, and a heroic size statue represents him as big as he thought he was."—Chicago Record.

A Good Law.
A law has just been passed in France forbidding any one to give solid food to infants under a year old without the written authority of a physician. In France, too, the long rubber tubes to feeding bottles are forbidden under heavy penalties. Everywhere people are warned not to use them, the reason being that it is impossible to keep them properly sterilized.

CANNY INSECT-WORKERS.
They Fertilize Flowers For Strictly Utilitarian Reasons.
A correspondent writes: "The theory of the origin of flowers by the selection of insects is one which has attracted much attention both in scientific circles and from the general public. Set forth by Darwin in the 'Origin of Species,' it has been largely developed in a series of interesting publications by Sir John Lubbock and Mr. Grant Allen.
Some fresh and interesting light has now been thrown on it by a series of experiments recently carried out by Professor Plateau of the University of Ghent. Professor Plateau has arrived at the conclusion that insects are indifferent to the colors of the flowers they visit, and that they are guided to them in a very subordinate way by sight.
The experiments on which the Belgian professor bases his far-reaching conclusions are briefly these: Having covered the brightly colored flowers of single dabbias in his garden with bits of green leaf, he found that they were still visited by insects. This seemed so much at variance with the generally received view that insects are attracted to flowers chiefly by their color that Professor Plateau instituted a prolonged series of experiments and observations to put the matter still further to the proof. The result has been to confirm and strengthen the conclusions drawn from the first experiments. Cutting off the brightly colored corollas of such flowers as lobelia, evening primrose, foxglove, etc., he found the remaining green parts were still visited. Again there are some brightly colored flowers which are seldom or never visited by insects owing to their lack of honey. Notable among these is the scarlet geranium of our garden. But when a little honey was placed on geranium flowers bees came to them at once, those blossoms which had not received honey being passed over.
"Other conspicuous flowers were tried in a similar way with like results. The experiment of removing the honey bearing parts of a flower and leaving the brightly colored part, which was supposed to be attractive, was also tried with the single dabbia. Its inner corolla was removed, leaving the conspicuous outer ones, a piece of yellow leaf being placed in the center. No insects went to these honeyless flowers. But as soon as a drop of nectar was placed on them they visited them as freely as before.
Again, Professor Plateau made artificial flowers with pieces of green leaf, each furnished with a little honey. These were freely visited by insects. But artificial flowers made of colored material were neglected, even when supplied with honey.
"In further support of his views Professor Plateau is able to bring forward the following facts as to the habits of insects in visiting flowers: They will pass freely and with apparent indifference from one color to another of varieties of the same species growing together in our gardens; they visit a great number of green and greenish colored flowers; there are many small and inconspicuous flowers which are also frequently visited. Such is a brief outline of Professor Plateau's observations and experiments, from which he believes himself justified in drawing the conclusion that sight plays a very subordinate part in attracting insects to flowers. Their hearing on the theory of the insect origin of flowers is obvious."—London Times.

The Old Man Was Cured.
"Talk about curing people of bad habits, one of the funniest cases I ever knew occurred on the south side some years ago," said Detective Thomas Mc-Quade. "There was an old fellow over there who would insist on fussing with his wife, who would invariably give him the worst of it. Then he would run up stairs and hang out of the second story window, holding to the ledge, shouting like wildfire that he was going to drop and kill himself. Of course the wife would relent and set up a noise that would bring out the neighbors for blocks, and the man would be pulled in the window by friends.
"This got to be coming too frequently, and some of the boys who lived near,
and who had loosened several joints in their spines at different times pulling him in, decided to stop it. One fine day it came again. The old fellow hung out of the window, shouting that he would surely jump and end it all; the wife came rushing into the street in hysterics, and the neighbors ran as before to pull him up. The first man who got there hit the man's fingers with a stick, making him loosen his hold; and, to the horror of all, he dropped to the hard pavement with a howl that was pitiful.
He was not badly hurt, but it cured him of that bad habit."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Queen Wilhelmina's Oath.
The coronation of the young queen of Holland will take place, according to a recently published decree, on Sept. 6.
On that day the young woman, with right hand raised, in the presence of the states general, will pledge herself to the following formula, which is a strange contrast to the oaths administered to the Russian and German em-perors:
"I swear to the people of the Netherlands to observe and always maintain the fundamental law. I pledge myself to defend and to preserve with all my power the independence of the kingdom, to protect public and private liberty and the rights of all my subjects and to employ for the preservation and advancement of individual and general prosperity all the means which the laws place at my disposal as the due of an upright queen. And may God aid me in my work."

Still They Tramp.
All but four states in the Union have tramp laws. England sends the tramp to the workhouse. France makes him do convict labor. Germany and Belgium put him on penal farms. But in all countries and in all states the tramp goes marching on.—Boston Globe.
